This workshop focuses on black bears in North Carolina. A majority of the workshop will be spent learning about the life history and current research on black bears, as well as activities that can be incorporated into educational programs. Information on how to coexist with black bears will also be provided, including a new regional program known as "BearWise". The workshop provides 5 hrs. Criteria II or III credit towards the N.C. Participants should come prepared to go outside, so please bring appropriate footwear, jacket, rain coat, etc. We'll have a great classroom to work out of with water and bathrooms, but please bring lunch and any snacks you might need.
